Bloomberg Professional Service Ending Support for Microsoft Office 2007

As of January 1, 2018, Bloomberg will no longer officially support Microsoft Office 2007. Bloomberg will take commercially reasonable steps to assist clients with compatibility issues until April 30, 2018.

Why is Bloomberg Ending Support for Office 2007?
Microsoft ended its support life cycle for Office 2007 on October 10, 2017 and will no longer be providing bug fixes, new features, security fixes, or technical support for Office 2007. As a result, Bloomberg will no longer receive support from Microsoft for Office 2007.

Can I Continue to Use the Bloomberg Add-In with Office 2007?
Bloomberg users are encouraged to migrate to more recent versions of Microsoft Office to receive new Bloomberg Add-In releases and to ensure compatibility with the BLOOMBERG PROFESSIONAL® service.

If you do not migrate to a newer version of Microsoft Office, you will stop receiving any new updates for the Bloomberg Add-In after April 2018. Between January and April of 2018, we will take commercially reasonable steps to ensure that the April version of the Bloomberg Add-In is stable for people that choose to remain on Office 2007.

What if I Have Multiple Versions of Microsoft Office Installed?
If you have multiple versions of Microsoft Office and one of them is Office 2007, you will not receive Bloomberg Add-In updates in order to minimize compatibility issues.

How do I Determine if I Have Office 2007 Installed on My Desktop?
You can type =BSettings("Office") in any Excel cell to see what version of Microsoft Office is installed.

How Can I See What Versions of Microsoft Office are Supported by Bloomberg?
See https://www.bloomberg.com/professional/support/faq/ for a link to the Software Compatibility Matrix.

Bloomberg